However, there are some oddities in the fight with Brontes: Dodge sideways out of the way of your OP clap attack using your dodge extended If you get too close, you can make a stomach attack that causes the rocks to fall - so you go backwards when you lift your feet You can shoot your eye bright for a crappy blow, and everything cover and charge when you do, leave it open to a dodge and attack. The mercenary's close, so go see him first. Killing the Scores protects you against the artifact of the First Civilization ³ you're looking for, as well as the heavy Polyphos Cyclops Bludgeon, which has a unique and useful engraving for other boss fights: Ae A +25% day in Elites and Bosses Ae A A . After a walk through the chilling Petrified Forest, which paralyzes both Phobos and Ikaros so much that you can't call them, call them, come upon the First Civilization structure that³ to be your battleground. Then return to Atlantis, place the seals in the four corners around Pythagoras and watch the story unfold. The third artifact is on Kythera Island, Aphrodite's island, in the southwest of the map. The best way to deal with them is arrows since they go down in one hit. Call Ikaros, and youe³All be able to uncover the three possible entrances to the cave that you need to enter. Once the fight begins, Medusa is invulnerable inside of her orb, and fights by animating statues around the arena. Travel with Empedokles to the Gulf of Korinth and the Cave of the Forgotten Isle - which you might find right at the start of the game before you landed in Messara. Itc³As just off the southeastern coast of Phokis. To track her down once you land on Lesbos, head over to the angry mob above the port and accept the e³Romancing the Stone Gardene³ side quest. The best strategy for this part seems to be to hide behind the pillar, fire a couple of arrows at her as soon as shec³As finished and very quickly dodge her overhead attacks before firing a couple more arrows. While shec³As focussed on beaming you behind a pillar, you can kind of peep around the side and line up a couple of headshots too. The artifact locations are tied to some of the most mythical and exciting quests in all of Assassin's Creed Odyssey, so here's how to find them. After uncovering the interesting revelation about their true father, the Eagle-Bearer sets off in search of the four artifacts that can seal the gates of Atlantis and keep the First Civilization's knowledge out of the Cult of Kosmos' hands. Inside the cave there are two guard bears, but it shouldn³At be too much trouble for you, the chest you need is up the ladder to the west. This is when you need to use abilities like Bull Rush to your advantage. You'll find the guy walking between the Murex Dyeing Facility in the northwest of the island and Kythera Town in the centre. Once theye³Are down, Medusa will be open to attack for a brief time. Just stick to your strategy and ite³All be fine. Enter through the door on the northern side of the island, jump into the water, and talk to Empedokles on the other side. Fight him as you would any of the other bosses in the game, hanging back from his attacks, use the invulnerability of your Warrior abilities to your advantage, and whittle the baddie's health bar down to nothing. Deal with the mob, then follow Bryce to save her beloved. Continue to follow Bryce through the temple, watching out for snakes. As you enter the temple, theree³As a On the gap on his left guarded by two snakes. He agrees to get the "Specific Disk" for Entastekles, who says that he is being held by a bandit leader in Kythera. This ends the second mission and gives another thing, "Extraire to Olympus". In the northeast of the island, you will find the village of Hagroa, which is a hostile area, so be careful, approaching the cliffs and should be able to stay hidden on grass patches. Mago again and he will fall on the ground, but he left him more and more exposed, but be careful with the reach, because he can only spam his attack of applauding and chipping his health after Having done so enough, A e³ IA e³ a, - I'll take a giant club to hit you. Make use of the invulnerability of your bull here, and remove the stone fighters in chaos. Second Location of Artifact We have a full page for the second artifact too. The easiest way to enter the fort is through a hole in the wall on the western side, where you can follow the stealth and take a few guards with long grass. Dodge using your extended roll, when it moves to the top of the sand by its loaded beam roll, hide behind a pillar, but be careful not to be still, it still rains the attacks from above after. Once you land, you need to accept the "God among men, the search in northwest of the island. Step between the civil and the priestess and as the conversation progresses, they agree to rescue the God. When they are treated, you're ready To depart from the medusa health in the same cycle for the last time. These can fall and harm it if it is maintained in a too long place, effectively stopping its ability to use. Defeat the Stone People and the attack cycle of the beam will start again. Once she turns low, she can hurry just after she has finished her beam of and use a domain attack to finish it. I would say to Fort Murex, which is only a little north of current ³. Location ³ Lesbos artifact The artifact on Lesbos is probably the last one you go out looking for, as the lowest level of enemies is 46, going up to 50. The Bull Rush skill is good against stone enemies because they tend to get together. The one you want is the Arktoi Cave south of the village, is guarded by two Daughters of Artemis, but you can spend A them on the long grass. Location ³ the artifact of Kythera Island For the final two artifacts, we will list how ³ get them here. With a third of her health remaining, she to retreat her orb again - this time summoning five stone attackers and shooting at you with her hit. A definitely A Second Wind's ultimate ability, as well as the unique engraving of the Hades arc, which turns the basic arrows into fire arrows, because the chip's day is invaluable. Zetes the Retired makes you fight with the lance - and must be around level 48. This completes the first misi³ n³ and asks you to accept a second - Ae A Left to Die Ae A A . It also has unwavering, so don't bother trying to kick, hit or smash it off the attractive closing cliff. The western cave - the cave of Artemis is used for a different search, Make the Daughter Clothes north of the island. As with all their First Civilization encounters ³ so far, another ethical beast is on hold. Given that the search line is called "Snake Shadows," you may already have The idea of what he's facing, and if you followed Assasin³ Ae A s Creed Odyssey before release³ there's no boss .arratahc .arratahc n arap esraraperp y ,daerD gnliiaT ed adiraug al ed areuf ecyrB a eserger ,evall al ne sonam sus noC .asudeM :aroha atsh ageuj le odot arap etnesua etnemlbisiv odatse ah euq ohcum odagapa euf
